

TENANT FARMER'S TRAIL 38 KM

Trek across the National Park

Outdoor life on wooded hills

The Tenant Farmer's Trail is the perfect weekend trip and provides a fascinating view into the area's rich agricultural history. Soon you will become an expert in slash-and-burn agriculture, meadow culture as well as age-old wilderness traditions. During the trail, you will dive deep into the beautiful beard-lichen-encrusted spruce forest and rise on top of Ahmakallio to see the most beautiful sights that the National Park has to offer. The route includes several wilderness huts that provide excellent accommodations for an overnight stay and a warm sauna to enjoy at the end of a long day.

TRAIL TOPOGRAPHY:

TRAIL DESCRIPTION:

The trail starts from Kouva and goes to the Crown Tenant Farm at Rytivaara (blue markings). At Rytivaara, visitors can use the campfire site, Rytitupa Hut (reservable hut) and a sauna if they have reserved Rytitupa Hut. On the way to the lean-to shelters at Peuroulampi Pond and Lomaoja (blue markings), the route snakes across the eskers and features regular ascents along the mires and eskers towards the Visitor Centre. The last stop along the trail is Annintupa Hut, where you can make a campfire and have a light lunch before heading back.

have reached Ahmakallio. Ahmakallio features an observation tower that provides visitors with the best views of the entire National Park. From Ahmakallio, you will descend along a rocky and tree-root-filled path towards Ahmatupa Hut, where you have the possibility of staying the night. The final portion of the route criss-crosses along the mires and eskers towards the Visitor Centre. The last stop along the trail is Annintupa Hut, where you can make a campfire and have a light lunch before heading back.

GOOD TO KNOW:

- tour/mountain biking is only allowed on roads and separately-marked biking routes along the trail.
- during forest fire warnings, making any open fires is expressly prohibited
- pets are welcome on the route and in the huts. Please remember to keep your animal friends leashed at all times.
- there are no waste receptacles at the rest stops, so please remember to "Leave No Trace"
- the dry toilets do not include any toilet paper
- You may use the natural waters at your own risk.
